Course Description

This course introduces students to some of the major, political, economic, cultural, and social developments that have shaped the history of our contemporary world. The course offers an interdisciplinary and comparative view of twentieth century world history. As the history of the world is too broad to do justice to over one semester, we will look at a range of events, processes, and developments of the twentieth century, through the analytical lenses of mass culture, the crises of modernity, and totalitarianism, from two world wars and economic troubles to the Cold War and globalization.

Course Objectives:

The students of the course will analyze historical events and movements of the 20th century through cultural and historical texts and assess their subsequent significance. Students will use critical thinking and problem-solving skills to analyze information in a collaborative research project and develop their writing skills in reflections and online discussions.

Learning Goals:

Upon completion of this course, students should specifically demonstrate knowledge of some of the fundamental concepts and theories of historical events and ideas related to the 20th Century World, evaluate global exchanges and perspectives in context of social, political, religious, and intellectual traditions, and read, analyze, organize and synthesize, evidence, historical problems, and interpretations connected to the history of the 20th Century World.

Required Texts:

Findley, Carter and Rothney, John Alexander. Twentieth Century World, 7th edition. Used copies of the fifth and sixth editions can be found at a number of used booksellers. You may use them, but be warned that the chapters do not align perfectly with the reading schedule of this course.

Arendt, Hannah, The Origins of Totalitarianism. This book is available at the University Book Store, and is widely-available used at many online booksellers. The Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich edition is preferred, but the Penguin Modern Classics will do, as well.

Additional Texts:

Additional required readings are available on or through Canvas.

Assignments and Grading:

Participation: Everyone is both expected and required to participate in class discussions and, when relevant, in the online discussion forum. The participation grade will reflect the quality and quantity of your in-class participation.

Quizzes: There will be four surprise quizzes throughout the semester. They will be conducted online.

Reading Report: Students will submit a report on an assigned reading and lead discussion in one class.

Reaction Paper: Students will write reaction papers on Night and Fog and the Global Pop Music Playlist.
Research Project: Students will complete a research project consisting of a proposal, an annotated bibliography, and a final report.

- Participation ............................................ 10%
- Presentation ............................................... 10%
- Reaction Papers ........................................ 10%
- Quizzes ..................................................... 20%
- Research Project ......................................... 15%

- Midterm Exam ............................................ 15%
- Final Exam ................................................ 20%

There will be no deadline extensions except in the most extreme circumstances.

Attendance:

Attendance is mandatory. Students are expected to attend every class, arrive on-time and stay for the duration of the class. Students may be excused for illness, family emergency and similar extreme situations, and religious observance. Absences for work, job interviews and similar events will not be excused.

Six unexcused absences will result in an automatic failing grade. Students who miss eight or more sessions through any combination of excused and unexcused absences will not earn credit in this class. Such students should withdraw from the course.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Integrity is fundamental to the academic enterprise. It is violated by such acts as borrowing or purchasing assignments (including but not limited to term papers, essays, and reports) and other written assignments, using AI text generators to complete assignments, using concealed notes or crib sheets during examinations, copying the work of others and submitting it as one’s own, and misappropriating the knowledge of others. The sources from which one derives one’s ideas, statements, terms, and data, including Internet sources, must be fully and specifically acknowledged in the appropriate form; failure to do so, intentionally or unintentionally, constitutes plagiarism. Violations of academic integrity may result in a lower grade or failure in a course and in disciplinary actions with penalties such as suspension or dismissal from the College. The university's policy on academic integrity is available at https://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/

All students are required to sign the Rutgers Honor Code Pledge. To receive credit, every major assignment must include the following phrase: “On my honor, I have neither received nor given any unauthorized assistance on this examination / assignment.”

The unauthorized use of ChatGPT and similar AI tools in an assignment is an academic integrity violation, and will be reported to the Dean of Students office.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus’s disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration form on the ODS web site. For more information, please contact Kate Torres at (973)353-5375 or in the Office of Disability Services in the Paul Robeson Campus Center, in suite 219 or by contacting odsnewark@rutgers.edu.

CITATION FAQ

What do you need to cite?

Any phrase, sentence or paragraph that you have taken from another source, even if it’s a sentence fragment. For example, if you use the phrase "to be or not to be: that is the question," you must provide a citation to the relevant page in a published edition of William Shakespeare’s play Hamlet. As a general rule, if you are using words that someone else wrote, you must cite. Failure to do so constitutes plagiarism.

Any information that you found in another source (and isn't common knowledge), even if you paraphrase. For example, if you write something like "almost ten per cent of the adult males in the United States in 1924 were members of the Ku Klux Klan," you have to say where you got that information. If you don't, how do I know that you're not making it up?

As a general rule, you don't have to provide citations for information that we covered in class.

What happens if you don’t cite?

It depends. A written assignment that does not reference any sources will receive and automatic zero grade. A written assignment that does reference sources, but does not cite them will receive an automatic 50% grade penalty.

If you don't know whether you should cite a passage, quote or information, err on the side of caution and cite it.

What do you need?

As a general rule, you will need a bibliography page, and footnotes or parenthetical notes in text for all of your references. Please use either the University of Chicago/Turabian citation style or the simplified citation style on the next page.

SUBMISSION POLICY

All written assignments must be submitted to the appropriate link on Canvas by the beginning of class on the deadline date. No assignments will be accepted after the deadline, except with prior arrangement and in the most extreme circumstances. If you miss a class – and a deadline – due to illness or other excused absence, you must inform me, and submit the assignment to Canvas. Written assignments must be submitted to the appropriate Canvas link (that is, not to the assignment comments, etc.) to receive credit.

PRIMARY AND SECONDARY SOURCES

Historians refer to primary and secondary sources. A primary source is a document, speech, or other sort of evidence written, created or otherwise produced during the time under study, or by a participant. Primary sources offer an inside view of a particular event. Secondary sources provide interpretation and analysis of primary sources. Secondary sources are usually (though not always) written by professional historians and are one step removed from the original event.
CITATION BASICS

As a rule, historians cite sources according to the University of Chicago style. If you plan to pursue further studies in history, you will find it advisable to acquire A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, Eighth Edition: Chicago Style for Students and Researchers by Kate L. Turabian. For the purposes of this course, you may use the simplified guide below.
