***REMOTE TEACHING NOTICE*****

Due to the continuing risks of the coronavirus pandemic, Rutgers has determined that this course will be taught remotely. All of the content (lectures and readings) and most of the assignments (papers, quizzes, discussion boards) will have submission deadlines, but they will be delivered asynchronously. This means that students will have the flexibility to complete the work according to their schedule, provided they do so by the submission deadline. However, there is one component of the course that will require students to attend a video discussion conference every other Thursday during the course's scheduled time. All students must make sure that they can be available for these Thursday meetings.

Course Description: US History I provides a broad survey of US History from the period of first contact between Europeans and Amerindians in the late-fifteenth century through the end of Reconstruction in 1877. Topics include first encounters between Europeans and Native Americans; the origins and rise of American slavery and the Atlantic Slave Trade; the social, political, and economic development of colonial societies in the Americas; the revolutionary break with England and the ratification of the US Constitution; the divergent social, political, and economic development of northern and southern states; "Manifest Destiny" and westward expansion; the rise of sectionalism and the crisis over slavery; and the Civil War and Reconstruction. Though the primary focus of this course is on the geographic region that eventually became the United States, we will take a wider continental and global approach to our subject. North America was the meeting place of peoples from three different continents -- America, Africa, and Europe -- and its land was claimed by a variety of imperial polities, both European (British, French, Dutch, Spanish) and Native American (Iroquois, Cherokee, Comanche). The emphasis of this class will be to transcend the teleology of a purely national history and to understand how a variety of global economic, cultural, and political forces forged the nation and people of the United States.

Course Objectives:

- Learn the basic facts (who, what, when, where) of early American history
- Recognize and analyze a variety of historical documents known as "primary sources"
- Assess primary sources in terms of their reliability, veracity, and bias
- Evaluate how historians use primary sources to build their own interpretations of the past

- Generate original historical arguments using evidence gleaned from reading primary sources
- Improve critical thinking and written skills through a critical engagement with early American history

Canvas: We will be using Canvas as the course LMS. All of the content and assignments will be posted to the LMS in advance. All students should make sure they have access to the course Canvas site immediately.

Texts & Readings: You do not have to purchase any books for this class. The textbook is offered free online at www.americanyawp.com. Primary sources will either be posted to Canvas or publicly available online.

Attendance Policy: As mentioned in the remote teaching note above, the majority of the course will be delivered asynchronously -- that is, you can complete it on your own schedule, provided you do so by the assignment deadline. However, the one synchronous component of the course will require you to attend a video group discussion section once every other Thursday during the course's regularly scheduled time. Attendance in these sessions is mandatory and will be used to determine the Discussion portion of your grade (see below).

Assignments and Grading:

Your Final Grade in the course will consist of the following four categories:

- |              |     |           |     |
|--------------|-----|-----------|-----|
| • Discussion | 25% | • Paper 1 | 25% |
| • Quizzes    | 15% | • Paper 2 | 35% |

Grading Scale:

100-90	A	75-70	C
89-86	B+	69-60	D
85-80	B	59 and below	F
79-76	C+

Discussion: The discussion portion of your grade will consist of both written posts submitted to a group discussion board and your participation in the bi-weekly video discussion sessions. Both components will ask you to analyze and interpret one of the weekly assigned readings. Students are expected to have read the assigned readings and to be prepared to discuss them before the discussion assignment is due. Both the discussion board and the video discussion sessions are opportunities for students to ask questions about any material that is difficult or unclear. All students must participate in the both the discussion board and video discussion sessions in order to receive full credit for the Discussion portion of their grade.

The procedure for the discussion is as follows:

On weeks when you are not attending the video discussion session, you will be asked to write two (2) discussion posts: 1) an initial response post of at least 200 words due on Wednesday by 11:59 PM in which you respond to a question submitted either by me or one of your groupmates; and 2) a reply post of at least 200 words due on Friday by 11:59 PM in which you reply to one of your groupmate's initial responses.

On the weeks you are attending your group video discussion, you will submit only the initial response post of at least 200 words due on Wednesday by 11:59 PM.

Discussion Etiquette: It should go without saying that students must treat each other respectfully during class discussions. We will be covering controversial and sensitive ideas and materials that some students might find offensive. That said, part of the learning experience at college is to investigate and unpack precisely these kinds of difficult topics so that we can try to arrive at a better understanding of their meaning and significance, both for ourselves and for our society as a whole.

Quizzes: I will be giving a variety of different types of quizzes throughout the semester. The quizzes will be based on the readings and lectures. Quizzes will be announced in advance and hosted on the Canvas website.

Papers: Students will write one 1,000-word (~ 4 pages) and one 1,200-word paper (~ 5 pages). I will circulate a list of topics and the specific assignment requirements in advance of the paper due date. Both papers will require you to analyze primary sources, place them in their historical context, and use them to produce your own historical interpretation.

Submission of Papers: All papers will be submitted via Canvas.

Due Dates: Papers are to be submitted through Canvas by 11:59 PM on the date listed in the syllabus (see below under "Important Due Dates"). Late papers will receive a grade reduction of three (3) points for each day they are late. Papers submitted 14 days or more past the due date will not receive credit.

Extensions: All students have a one-time, no-questions-asked, one-day extension they can use for any of the papers. If you choose to use your no-questions-asked extension, you can turn in the paper one (1) day late without penalty. Requests for extensions based on extenuating circumstances (illness, family emergency, etc.) will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis and may require documentation.

Revisions: All students who submit their papers on-time have the option of revising and resubmitting them for a higher grade. Students who do not submit their original paper on time do not have the opportunity to revise and resubmit.

In order to improve their grade on the revision, students must make significant, substantive changes to their papers based on the comments and feedback I give on the original submission. Revisions are due one week after I return the graded original submission. If you submit a revision, the grade you receive on that revision is the final grade you will get for that paper assignment. I will not accept revisions submitted after the due date.

***Writing Center***: The Writing Center, located in Room 126 of Conklin Hall, offers writing tutoring and writing workshops to all undergraduate students currently enrolled in classes on the Rutgers-Newark campus. Their tutors work to help students become more independent readers and writers capable of responding well to the demands of writing within the university. Please inform your students that The Writing Center is available to them free of charge and encourage them to take advantage of their services to strengthen their reading, writing, and research skills. More information is available at: <http://www.ncas.rutgers.edu/writingcenter>

Academic Integrity: Rutgers University requires all students to acknowledge and abide by the school's Academic Integrity Policy. As such, all students are required to sign the Rutgers honor pledge ("On my honor, I have neither received nor given any unauthorized assistance on this assignment") for all major assignments, including papers and exams. For those who would like more detailed information on Rutgers' Academic Integrity Policy, please refer to this link (<http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy/>).

NOTE: Please be especially mindful of the section on plagiarism (II, A: "Types of Violations"). Plagiarism is a question of fact, not of intent, meaning you can get in trouble for plagiarism, even if you did not intentionally plagiarize another person's work.

The LOA must be given to each course instructor by the student and followed up with a discussion. This should be done as early in the semester as possible as accommodations are not retroactive.
