Course Description
This course involves a survey of early and modern political theory. In order to contextualize modern political theory, our point of departure will be the emergence in the world of the Greek city-states of political theory as a distinctive tradition of discourse. With the revolts and reforms that gave birth to democracy, a new political experience in the fifth century BCE in Athens, also led to the consequent development of systematic political theorizing. The Greeks reflected on their new political experience in a variety of genres and modes of discourse. The same could be said about the ways in which Roman, Medieval, and Renaissance thinkers inherited and transformed Greek political thought in their respective milieus. In the Roman period, for instance, political theorizing was radically transformed in relation to the different spatial configurations and historical processes that characterized the transition from the Roman Republic to the Empire. Lastly, the emergence of Christianity, and its eventual fate as an imperial religion, will be briefly examined, and the transmogrifications of political thought within it.

Accordingly, this course examines some of the basic conceptual fields emerging as subjects of political-theoretical reflection: democracy, constitutions, justice, equality, and authority, and other themes that defined this experience; say, the tensions associated with the distinctions between demos and the elite, ethics and politics, democracy and empire, capitalism and democracy, along with the effects of war on democracy. In doing so, the course also offers a critical exploration of the emergence of liberal-capitalist civilization in light of the forms of power that characterizes it. Accordingly, we will address the nature of the new modern forms of power and their impact on political life, along with the nature and contradictions of post-revolutionary political and economic orders; and, finally, the political and economic realities governing the present.

Course Schedule
ALL sessions will be held asynchronously. Make sure that you READ the Introductory Remarks and LISTEN to the Lectures posted on Blackboard every Monday. These would introduce the week’s reading and provide some guiding questions that would facilitate your weekly reading.

IMPORTANT DATES
This course begins on September 1, 2020 and ends on December 10, 2020.
Required Text
ISBN: 9780691174051

This text can be purchased online, either at the Rutgers University-Newark Bookstore (http://newark-rutgers.bncollege.com), or any other online vendor.

TECHNICAL PROBLEMS
In the online environment, there is always a possibility of technical issues (e.g., lost connection, hardware or software failure). Many of these can be resolved relatively quickly, but if you wait to the last minute before due dates, the chance of these glitches affecting your success are greatly increased. Please plan appropriately. If a problem occurs, it is essential you take immediate action to resolve the problem. Technical questions should be directed to the Student Help Desk at:
   help@newark.rutgers.edu
   973-353-5083
   Hill Hall 109

ONLINE COURSE SITE
This course can be accessed through Blackboard: https://blackboard.rutgers.edu.

ASSESSMENT
The course is designed to help students develop the reading, writing, and oral skills they need in order to precede through the university:

1. Conscious and critical reading: We will discuss effective reading strategies (to find “main arguments” or identify evidence, for example). We will practice effective reading approaches to theoretical texts.

2. Clear and effective writing: This course will help students to improve their ability to express themselves clearly on paper. It will provide students with the opportunity to practice revising their written work in order to improve the organization and presentation of their ideas. In writing, they will work toward being able to use evidence appropriately in order to deal with and apply complex ideas accurately.

3. Critical thinking: In writing or speaking, students will learn to be active, critically informed individuals. This course will teach students how to approach interpretative challenges by providing them with a range of intellectual resources that will allow them to respond critically to these challenges. Among these intellectual resources are the sociocultural background, the historical context, and the knowledge of critical concepts related to the texts under study. These intellectual resources will foster a climate of critical inquiry.

4. Self-assessment: Students will work on becoming conscious of the strengths and learning skills they already have, and they will set goals for improving their skills. At various points during the semester, students will evaluate their progress in improving their learning skills by reviewing the work they have completed thus far during the term.

COURSE POLICIES
Students are also expected to read the material assigned in the course; log in to the course at least three times per week to ensure you do not miss pertinent postings, messages, or announcements.

LATE SUBMISSIONS
Unless otherwise noted, all written assignments are due at the time and date listed in the syllabus. If you experience an unavoidable personal situation that prevents you from completing work on time, please inform the professor prior to the date the work is due. Late work will result in points taken off, a lowering of the assignment grade, and/or an “F,” depending on the assignment.

EVALUATION
I. Two Essays
Students will write two short essays (5 pp. each) in which they should critically address a question formulated by the professor about the text under study. The answer to this question must be in the form of a short academic essay. Grades on the short essays will be based on how students:
1. develop an argument about the text and state it clearly in their thesis;
2. support that argument with evidence from close reading of the text;
3. use the proper academic vocabulary with precision;
4. bring curiosity about language and concepts;
5. write responsibly using the dictionary;
6. do it all in clear and precise English.

II. Response Papers
Students are responsible for the required readings and for handing in a 1 page response paper/summary of the weekly readings addressing the questions posted as part of the introductory remarks for every week. Make sure that your papers are well organized, clearly and carefully argued, as well as textually supported. You are expected to accurately represent the content of the chapters in question, and to address the question posed in the Introductory Remarks for the week in question. To be considered on-time, response papers need to be submitted through Blackboard on the day these are due. Unless you are under documented-extenuating circumstances, LATE Response Papers will not be accepted.

These Response Papers constitute your class participation. Accordingly, you must demonstrate in your discussions that you read the text assigned for the course and that you did your homework. FORMAT: 1-2 page double-spaced Times New Roman, point 12, Chicago Style: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide/citation-guide-1.html
EVALUATION RUBRIC

Two short essays (25% each) 50%

Cautionary Note/Important Advice
There are several things that you should keep in mind to avoid unpleasant surprises. I expect students to critically ponder the arguments each thinker presents and to make an effort to understand these arguments with the goal of developing a rigorous and informed critique. Second, the text under scrutiny is sometimes dry, difficult, and dense, therefore, it is important that you have your thoughts together when you work your way through these texts. I encourage you to do the readings when you are awake, and in an environment conducive to study, otherwise it will be difficult to keep up with the reading.

Academic Integrity
All work you submit for the course is expected to be your own. Cheating or plagiarism (using someone else’s words or ideas without proper citation) will lead to failing the course and action from the University. Whenever you quote, closely paraphrase, refer to or make use of arguments or examples from other sources in your written work, you must cite the appropriate source in a footnote, endnote, or in parentheses at the end of the sentence, depending of what citation style you are using. Please see the university’s guidelines on student conduct:
http://studentconduct.rutgers.edu/university-code-of-student-conduct

Grading Response Time
Assignments should be graded within one week of the due date. Assignments that are lengthy may take longer to grade.

Grading Scale
All grades will be posted to Blackboard. The final average will determine the final grade, with letter grades corresponding to the levels of achievement established in the college-wide policy determined by the University’s Faculty Senate, as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>90-100</td>
<td>achievement that is outstanding relative to the level necessary to meet course requirements.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>80-87 (88-89 B+)</td>
<td>achievement that is significantly above the level necessary to meet course requirements.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C</td>
<td>70-77 (78-79 C+)</td>
<td>achievement that meets the course requirements in every respect.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D</td>
<td>60-69</td>
<td>achievement that is worth of credit even though it fails to meet fully the course requirements</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F/N</td>
<td>0-59</td>
<td>represents failure (or no credit) and signifies that the</td>

</tbody>
</table>
work was either:
(1) completed but at a level of achievement that is not worthy of credit; or
(2) was not completed and there was not agreement between the instructor and the student that the student would be awarded an I (incomplete).

Communication Policy

- Course announcements. Announcements will be posted on Blackboard and emailed to students. You are responsible for providing the instructor with a current e-mail address that you check regularly, and for reading all announcements posted by the instructor. You should log into our course and your e-mail at least three times per week to check for new announcements and/or messages.

- Course-related questions. Please post course-related questions to the Questions and Answers Discussion Board on Blackboard. Asking course-related questions in this way allows other participants with the same question to benefit from the responses.
For this reason, please make sure you review this forum prior to posting a question;
it may have already been asked and answered in previous posts.

- Personal and/or confidential matters. For personal and/or confidential matters, please e-mail the instructor at a.vazquez@rutgers.edu. For course-related questions, please use the Questions and Answers Discussion Board within the course. Except for weekends and holidays, the instructor typically will respond to email messages within 24 business hours.

Netiquette

“Netiquette” is network etiquette, the dos and don’ts of online communication. When posting to our discussion board or communicating with others in our class, please remain courteous. Below are the guidelines we will follow in this course (adapted from http://www.indiana.edu/~icy/netiquette.html#rules):

1. Make your messages easier to read by making your paragraphs short and to the point.
2. Use normal capitalization. TYPING IN ALL CAPS IS CONSIDERED SHOUTING ON THE INTERNET. Messages in all lowercase letters can be difficult to read.
3. Avoid using slang and abbreviations because they can lead to misinterpretation. Be careful when using sarcasm and humor. Without face-to-face communications your joke may be viewed as criticism. When being humorous, use emoticons to express humor. (tilt your head to the left to see the emoticon smile) :-)
4. Never give your userID or password to another person. System administrators that need to access your account for maintenance or to correct problems will have full privileges to your account.
5. Respect the fact that the class list is a closed discussion; do not forward mail from your classmates to others without their permission.
6. Be professional and courteous. In an online forum or newsgroup, debate is welcome, but be tactful in responding to others. Remember that there's a person (or a whole class) at the receiving end of your post.

7. Keep your questions and comments relevant to the focus of the discussion group. Information intended for an individual or small group of individuals should be emailed to those people directly.

8. If you are responding to a message from someone else, briefly summarize her or his post.

9. When posting a question to the discussion group, request that responses be directed to you personally. Post a summary or answer to your question to the group.

10. If you quote a previous post (by using the reply function for example), quote only enough to make your own point.

11. Include your signature at the bottom of Email messages when communicating with people who may not know you personally or broadcasting to a dynamic group of subscribers.

12. Be respectful of other points of view. Remember that these discussions are “public” and meant for constructive exchanges. Treat the others on the list as you would want them to treat you.

13. If you want to get in touch with only one person in the class, send a message to that individual's e-mail address, not to the entire discussion list.

14. When replying to a message posted to a discussion group, check the address to be certain it's going to the intended location (person or group). It can be very embarrassing if they reply incorrectly and post a personal message to the entire discussion group that was intended for an individual.

15. Think and proofread before you submit!

Time Commitment

To be successful in this course, you will need to commit to an estimated average of 9 hours of coursework per week for the fifteen-week semester. (Some weeks will require more time, some less.) This is the same amount of time that you would need to commit to in a traditional, face-to-face three-credit class.

Dropping the Course

In order to withdraw from a course, it is not sufficient to stop posting assignments or contributing to discussion. In accord with university policy, students wishing to withdraw from a course must do so formally through the Registrar’s office. It is the student’s responsibility to complete all forms. If this is not done, the instructor must assign a grade of F at the end of the semester.

Required technological skills

- Ability to utilize Blackboard

Required equipment / materials

- Computer, Internet access, webcam with microphone OR headphones with microphone
- Software that can save a file in the format of Microsoft Word or PDF
Resources for Students
Rutgers University Newark (RU-N) is committed to the creation of an inclusive and safe learning environment for all students. RU-N has identified the following resources to further the mission of access and support:

- Students with Disabilities. Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. The Office of Disability Services (ODS) is responsible for the determination of appropriate accommodations for students who encounter barriers due to disability. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact ODS, register, have an initial appointment, and provide documentation. Once a student has completed the ODS process (registration, initial appointment, and documentation submitted) and reasonable accommodations are determined to be necessary and appropriate, a Letter of Accommodation (LOA) will be provided to the student. The student must give the LOA to each course instructor, followed by a discussion with the instructor. This should be completed as early in the semester as possible as accommodations are not retroactive. More information can be found at ods.rutgers.edu. Contact ODS: (973) 353-5375 or ods@newark.rutgers.edu.

- Religious Holiday Policy and Accommodations. Students are advised to provide timely notification to instructors about necessary absences for religious observances and are responsible for making up the work or exams according to an agreed-upon schedule. The Division of Student Affairs is available to verify absences for religious observance, as needed: (973) 353-5063 or DeanofStudents@newark.rutgers.edu.

- Counseling Services. Counseling Center Room 101, Blumenthal Hall, (973) 353-5805 or http://counseling.newark.rutgers.edu/.

- Students with Temporary Conditions/Injuries. Students experiencing a temporary condition or injury that is adversely affecting their ability to fully participate in their courses should submit a request for assistance at: https://temporaryconditions.rutgers.edu.

- Students who Are Pregnant. The Office of Title IX and ADA Compliance is available to assist students with any concerns or potential accommodations related to pregnancy: (973) 353-1906 or TitleIX@newark.rutgers.edu.

- Gender or Sex-Based Discrimination or Harassment. Students experiencing any form of gender or sex-based discrimination or harassment, including sexual assault, sexual harassment, relationship violence, or stalking, should know that help and support are available. To report an incident, contact the Office of Title IX and ADA Compliance: (973) 353-1906 or TitleIX@newark.rutgers.edu. To submit an incident report: tinyurl.com/RUNReportingForm. To speak with a staff member who is confidential and does NOT have a reporting responsibility, contact the Office for Violence Prevention and Victim Assistance: (973) 353-1918 or run.vpva@rutgers.edu.
