Kahn, not Khan). If not, forward it to me again, please. Over weekends, I don’t usually check email around 5pm on weekdays, and reply early the next morning; if I haven’t received it by then, I won’t see it until the following Monday. Most weekends are relatively empty of work, but I don’t always get away from tasks. Be kind to yourselves and adjust accordingly.

I know the world is unpredictable, as I’m sure you can all sympathize with!)

Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts. Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts. Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts.

You must also submit a copy of your paper electronically via the Purdue OWL. The University’s policy is that all students submit their papers electronically when class is in session and for the purposes of assessment, grading, and final determination of academic standing. All course materials including syllabi, quizzes, tests, and assignments are protected by the University’s intellectual property policy. The course is designed to achieve the following outcomes:

Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts. Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts. Students will develop and demonstrate an awareness of the significance of literature and of issues central to the study of literature in relation to their own cultural, political, and social contexts.